IMS by HURCO is a unique software program that has been designed to manage critical data and provide detailed reports to manage your water distribution system. This system was designed around the recommendations of the American Water Works Association (AWWA) and the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA).

Critical water system testing made easy, accurate and affordable with IMS.

- Fire Flow Test, to insure that your fire hydrants will provide the water necessary to fight a fire.
- Valve and Hydrant exercising, to ensure valves and hydrants work easily and so a water main can be isolated in an emergency.
- C-factor testing, to evaluate the true flow characteristics of a water distribution system to ensure your customers have an adequate supply of water and for future water main extensions.
- Unidirectional Flushing, the only way to properly scour and clean a water main and have the least amount of impact on your customers.

Easy to use. You don't need to be an engineer to use IMS to accomplish these critical water line functions!
